MRS. SCHLICHTER'S FUNERAL.

Passing of an Old Resident of South St. Louis.

The funeral of Mrs. Martin Schlichter, who had lived at No. 1906 South Seventh street for forty years, was held from SS. Peter and Paul's Church at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The interment was in 8S. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

Mrs. Schilchter died Saturday at the age of $7. General debility, resulting from old age, was the cause of her death. She was born in Germany and came to this country in 1847. A year later she returned to Germany and came back to $1. Louis in 1831. In those days the neighborhood in which she made her home was sparsely settled and the few dwellings in the locality were not very pretentious. Mrs. Schilchter built a house of stone on the same general plans of the other houses, and since 1831 she had lived there, refusing to allow any alterations or additions to be made. Her property increased in value and large buildings were erected on all sides of the house, almost completely shutting it from a view of the street, but she continued to reside in the old home in spite of the entreaties of her children. In front of the old house is a garden full of roses, in which the old lady used to spend the greater part of her time.

She was married three times, and her Peter and Paul's Church at 2 o'clock yes-she was married three times, and her third husband, Martin Schlichter, who is 34 years old, survives her. Mrs. Schlichter was a regular attendant at SS. Peter and Paul's Church. She was noted in the neighborhood in which she lived for her benevolence. She was frequently called to the bedside of some sick friend and her old remedies often proved efficacious when the prescriptions of physicians did not have the desired effect. Whenever she heard that any one in the neighborhood was ill she kept them supplied with flowers from her garden until they were convalescent.

pany, which has the new contract for city lighting in the downtown district, caused the accident by which two policemen of the Fourth District were shocked to death Monday night and several others more or less seriously injured.

Responsibility for the occurrence is denied by the Seckner people, who say that their wire did not carry an excessive voltage, as was declared by Supervisor of City Lighting O'Reilly. Members of the Board of Public Improvements assert that the accident was entirely unavoidable Supervisor O'Reilly is as positive as ever that the voltage of the electric light wire was so great that no insulation would be proof against it, and asserts that a similar accident is likely to happen at any time on the Bell or Kinloch telephone systems,

The funerals of Patrolmen John Loency and Nicholas Beckmann will take place this afternoon and the inquest will be held this morning. All the other victims of the live wire were able to appear on the street yesterday and will be well in a few

MRCH DISPLEASED.

Acting President E. A. Hermann of the Board of Public Improvements was not at all pleased with Supervisor O'Relliy's criticism o' the board and the Lighting Committee. Mr. Hermann said:

"I freely confess that the Seckner contract is not the beart while to be obtained, but it was the beart we could do under the circumstances. In the first place, the wire that caused this calimity was not charged with $000 volts, as Mr. O'Relliy says, but to his circuit, and each light had seventy volts. This is a matter of absolute proof, and the voltage could not have exceeded seventy volts to the light without burning out the carbons. Mr. O'Relliy admits that fact when he says to limit the voltage on a circuit. He wanted the company restricted to twenty or thirty lights. Now, I do not claim to be an electrical expert, but I am advised that insulation against a voltage of 1,000 volts is as often ineffectual as against a higher pressure. But the Board of Public Improvements deemed its duty to be to throw a safeguard around the public by the adoption of a contract which would contain clauses protecting life and property. These clauses were inserted, and had they been no occasion for comment.

"The contract requires all wires to be strung a safe distanct from other wires, so there could not be a contact; yet we find the could not be a contact; yet we find the recould not be a contact; yet we find the recould not be a contact; yet we find the result of the warning when the news way to spread the warning the Seckner Contracting Company crossed a wire of the city police and fire telephone service. The wire of the Seckner Contract-ing Company was stretched across Eighth "When I read of the accident in the Fourth District last night, I wondered why in the world it was that the fire and police telephone service had not been provided with fuses. The Bell and Kinioch systems have them, all street car lines have them, all street car lines have them. Why haven't they been put in the police phones? Now, I don't know whether they could be used on the police phones, but if they could what a great saving it would have been. Surely if such a thing is practicable, uses will be adopted on the system at once. Such an accident is not possible with the fuse.

"This loss of life is but a warning. Other terrible accidents will follow as sure as the night follows the day, as long as the overhead wire is permitted in the downtown districts. There is but one real remedythat is to require that all wires in the congested business districts be under ground. Gould of the Imperial company said:
"No one regrets this awful socident more than I do, but it was simply an accident. There were only forty-eight lamps on the circuit, with a total voltage of 3.5%. A voltage of 5.00 would kill just as quickly as one of 5,000. In New York 1.7% volta executs at Sing Sing. What protection to life would it be to have a limitation of 3,000 volts under those circumstances? Nobody more deeply deplores this terrible fatality than I do, but it is simply an accident, and accidents, you know, will happen."

BLAME SHOULD BE FIXED.

Captain Kiely of the Fourth District said:
"Somebody is certainly responsible for this most deplorable affair. Who it is I cannot say. The responsibility should be fixed at once and the authorities should, without delay, adopt such precautionary measures as may be necessary to prevent a recurrence of such a catastrophe. The men whose lives were shocked out in the twinkling of an eye were worth more than all the electric companies on earth. Looney had been in the service five years, and a more honest, duful and courageous officer I never saw. He did not know what fear was. In the two years I have had charge of this district he had made some of the best captures.

"Beckmann was in the service about a year only. During that time he had conducted himself in a gentlemanly and officer-like manner, and would, I am sure, in time have made an excellent officer."

The inquest on the death of the two officers will be held to-day at 10 o'clock. BLAME SHOULD BE FIXED. FUNERALS OF THE

The funerais of the two dead officers will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Their bodies were removed to their respective homes yesterday. OF PUBLIC TELEPHONES.

There was no failing off in the general use of public telephones yesterday. Manager Strange of the Bell Exchange and Manager Casey of the Kinloch both said that they had had more business than is customary on Tuesday.

"Such accidents would be impossible over our 'phones." said Mr. Strange. "While there is no telling what $800 volts of electricity might do if it got into a 'phone, it would be impossible for such a current to enter a modern exchange. There is not one chance in a million that any serious shock can result from the use of a properly constructed phone, because the arresters in use turn all high currents into the ground."

Mr. Casey said that his exchange had been busier than usual yesterday, owing to the rush occasioned by increased wholesale trade. He also said that there is no possible danger in using a properly constructed telephone.

CHARGES AGAINST T. ROSSER ROEMER.

Filed by Police Captain Reynolds on Account of the Girl-Hugging Episode.

ROEMER REMAINS ON DUTY.

Chief Campbell Says if Accused Man Is Really Guilty, He "Must Have Been Drinking a Little."

Captain Reynolds of the Central Police District filed a formal charge of conduct unbecoming an officer with the secretary of the Police Board yesterday against Special Officer T. Rosser Roemer, who is accused of hugging three young women in a bunch at Seventh and Locust streets Saturday night.

Beard of Police Commissioners until next Tuesday afternoon, when it is expected that there will be a sitting. On account of the sickness of Commissioner Atmore the board has not met since July 29. Roemer will continue his duties without interruption until his case comes to trial.

Captain Reynolds, under whom Roemer is detailed, is inclined to look upon the charges with leniency and will not ask that he be suspended. Roemer is an efficient officer, he says, and this is his first offense, if he has committed any infraction of decorum. Therefore he thinks it is not necessary to suspend him until the charges are proved.

"The fact that I have filed a written charge with the board." said the Captain. "does not necessarily imply that Roemer is guilty. I did that because the officer is acguilty. I did that because the officer is ac-cused of unbecoming conduct, and the charge must be proved or disproved. I hope Captain Roemer can disprove the charge, for he is a good officer. "Captain Roemer is detailed to arrest the women who walk the streets in the down-town districts. On Saturday night he ar-think that it is an honest mistake of the officer."

Chief of Police Campbell had little to say.
"I don't think the Captain meant anything serious," said he, "but if he did what he is accused of he certainly committed a breach of decorum. I understand that he denies hugging the girls. Roemer is a good officer and if he did anything of this kind it must have been while he was drinking a little."
Miss Edia Woody of No. 406 Manchester avenue, Miss Neile Keepier of Maplewood, and Miss Rose Littleton of No. 3735 Finney avenue are the girls who made the complaint to the poice. They were on their way from their place of employment to take a car at Seventh and Locust streets when the officer in plain clothes approached and embraced them.

Black and Gold Seems to Be the Favorite Combination for Fall -Visitors Who Registered Yesterday.

The last fall millinery openings of the season, which were given yesterday by the St. Louis wholesale houses, were very successful, and every establishment crowded from morning until night with pretty milliners. The headquarters of the Interstate Mer

The display rooms of the wholesale millinery houses were bowers of beauty, and the number and variety of trimmed hats shown were greater than ever before. The thousands of trimmers employed by local jobbers have been working until near y midnight for several weeks preparing for vesterday's openings, but the results exceeded their expectations, and sales of pattern and trimmed hats were larger tian ever before. There was a remarkable lack of interest in the Parislan and other foreign confections, as well as the New York pattern hats, which were shown, as the vis-ttors, as a rule, preferred those designed by

There was an almost endless variety of styles, shapes and trimmings, and the most fastidious milliner could easily have found hats which were suited to her taste, but the hats which were suited to her taste, but the styles did not differ greatly from those shown at the last opening. New combinations of black and gold appear to be very popular, but green is still the prevailing color, and the new flambeau sliks in the new shades of green were very much in evidence in all the displays. There were a few more high crowns shown than at the last opening, and birds, especially paradise birds and wing effects, were much used. One particularly striking hat shown was a large box turban, with a black and gold crown, and heavy draped brim of black taffets with velvet folds. On the left side was a long Amazon plume, held in place by a large jet buckle.

At the age of 23 he was graduated from Harvard and began the practice of law in St. Louis in 1855.

He enjoyed the greater part of his life to studying the reputation of being one of the best real lawyers in the country. As a practitioner he never attained the success his talenta entitled him to, being largely engaged in the management of estates and to an office practice as counselor-at-law.
